PIANIST PLAYS HERE ON FEB. 13

The Gettysburg Concert Association will present Herman Godes, young pianist from Latvia, as the guest artist in the second of its concerts February 13 at 8:30 p.m. in Gettysburg College Christ Chapel.

Godes was an unknown here until he made his first North American tour during the 1951-52 season. Wherever he played he won not only the accolades of the critics but the hearts of his listeners.

As a result of the success of his first tour, Godes has played heavy schedules across the continent each season. Recent highlights have been his American orchestral debut and two recitals in New York's Town Hall.

He began his career on the European concert stage but it was cut short by the outbreak of World War II. His activities were interrupted first by two years of military service in the Latvian Army and then his subsequent capture by the Germans. He spent four years in concentration camps before his liberation from Buchenwald by United States troops in 1945.

Seminarian Will Be Extended Call

Eugene Gardner, a member of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Hagerstown, will be extended an official call to become assistant pastor of the Waynesboro Evangelical Church.

Gardner, who will be graduated from Lutheran Theological Seminary in May, preached a trial sermon Sunday morning.

If he accepts the call he will take up his duties as assistant pastor on July 1.

More than 400 persons attended the morning worship service to hear the theological student speak. The church officials were instructed to extend a call by unanimous action.

RICE TELLS OF REORGANIZATION BY STATE DEMS

"The present state administration has accomplished more in reorganization and economies in one year's time than many administrations have in the past," John S. Rice, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Property and Supplies, told the Adams County Democrat Women's Club at its regular monthly meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the local IOOF hall.

"We have done these things under great stress because we have been handicapped by the tax stalemate in the legislature. If the Republican controlled Senate passes a tax law we will be able to continue our reorganization and economies by legislation," Rice said.

"One of the things we have not been able to do this year is to get the legislature adjourned because of the tax issue. This means that many things are getting critical. We have no money for schools as well as for many more things. Many functions are crippled. Some of the things this administration has pledged to do are not being done because we lack tax funds."

Cites State's Savings
"However, we have been able to institute better business methods and affect such reorganizations that taxpayers have been saved millions of dollars," he said.

"The Department of Property and Supplies is the purchasing agent for the state. We are responsible for rentals, buildings and grounds. In short, it is the housekeeping department. We are the ones who are reminded if the floors need cleaning and the chairs dusting. We provide guide service for visitors to the capitol and are in charge of the capitol police."

"The department is the distribution agent for the federal government's surplus food program. At present the department maintains a cafeteria which feeds about 1,000 persons per day and is planning two new cafeterias. The 60-odd squirrels on the capitol grounds are not there by chance. They are there to amuse the children and the visitors. In the winter the department provides necessary food for the squirrels."

Spend $70,000,000 Annually
"In one year the department purchases total $70,000,000 — that is about $200,000 a day. It is responsible for the purchase of some 4,500 separate items. It purchases supplies for 61 state institutions — colleges, prisons and hospitals. For instance, one item is frozen sheep livers used by the Fish and Game Commission to feed fish for stocking streams. "We are also in the beauty parlor business. The morale of the women in our medical institutions is boosted

Adams County Free Library Continues Steady March To Larger And Better Institution

This is the final article in a series of three prepared for The Gettysburg Times by Attorney Leighton C. Taylor, Bendersville, on the importance of having a good library in the community with special reference to the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Adams County Free Library on January 19.

Starting from scratch, in restricted quarters at 135 Carlisle St., with meager equipment, and a nondescript collection of books and other publications coming largely from the overflow of private collectors, the Library at the end of its first year had demonstrated its ability to grow and to expand its facilities. Thus encouraged, there has been no let-up in the steady march to a bigger and better institution on the part of the management.

There is nothing romantic or exciting about figures or statistics, but I believe the following will be of interest:

Figures Tell Story
Beginning with approximately 2,500 books, the Library's stocks now carry 23,500 volumes, together with magazines, pamphlets, docu-

BAND CONCERT AT GHS MAR. 2; DINNER IN MAY

The annual Gettysburg High School Band concert will be presented in the school auditorium Friday evening, March 2, and the annual covered dish supper under the sponsorship of the Band Boosters will be held early in May. A special finance committee headed by Mrs. J. B. Collins and Paul Ecker has been appointed to find means of paying off the debt on the uniforms.

GREENSBURG, Pa. (P) — Four persons were reported killed and four injured today in an auto-truck collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike eight miles east of the New Stanton interchange.

The dead were not immediately identified. It was reported they all were from Detroit.

Officials at Mt. Pleasant Hospital, where the dead and injured were taken, identified the truck driver as Jim Linger, of Toledo, Ohio. They said he suffered third-degree burns of the body when his truck caught fire after the collision.

PLOWS NEEDED IN MOUNTAINS MONDAY NIGHT

Two State Highway Department snowplows were sent to mountain sections Monday evening while crews worked through most of the night in many sections of the county.

The snow, which began here just before 6 p.m. and stopped about 10 p.m., reached a depth of about three inches on the Sunshine Trail while less fell in the section of the mountain crossed by the Lincoln Highway. In the Gettysburg area, much of the snow melted as it fell and reached a depth of less than an inch.

A new winter snow blanketed Pennsylvania today, while in sections where the fall was light below-freezing temperatures iced over roads.

Driving Hazardous
In the eastern and central portions of the Keystone State the snow, that began falling late last night, was the second within a week.

The weatherman predicted clear but cold weather tonight and tomorrow with temperatures remaining, generally, below the freezing mark.

Driving conditions were hazardous, particularly on less-traveled secondary roads in the rural and mountainous counties.

Some Schools Close
Ice and snow covered sections of the Pennsylvania Turnpike from the New Stanton interchange, not far from Pittsburgh, right through to Valley Forge in the east.

State highway crews cindered the turnpikes and other main arteries and police warned motorists to drive with caution.

In many sections of the state where the snowfall was heaviest, around southern Lancaster County for instance, schools closed today. The city of Lancaster had less than an inch of snow but the fall measured up to 5 inches in parts of southern Lancaster County.

Easton, Philadelphia, Norristown and West Chester, among others, reported a snowfall of three inches.

Lane told members of the Gettysburg Lions Club Monday evening before showing them the new film on the community and the battlefield.

Mr. Lane said individuals and organizations already have indicated their interest in seeing more prints of the film made available for wide distribution as a Gettysburg promotion project. Now only the original film is available, he said. Copies can be made for from $75 to $100 each.

The Lions were shown the 22-minute color film which was made by the Lane Studios with the commentary by G. Henry Roth.

G. W. Lefevre, chairman of the committee for the observance of Charter Night next Monday evening, said the six charter members in the club and 12 others who are living will be guests of honor at a special table. C. Paul Cessna, a past district governor and charter member of the local club, will be master of ceremonies for the program which will include reminiscences of early club days.

The Gettysburg club was chartered in April, 1924. Special recognition also is planned next week for "old monarchs" in the club, members who have been Lions for 10 years or more.

President Earl E. Ziegler presided at the meeting at the Shetter House with 85 Lions and guests in attendance.

Dems May Be Backing Down As Sales Tax Action Comes; "Alternate To Bankruptcy"

HARRISBURG (P)—A Republican-sponsored sales tax appeared today to be on its way to the floor of the House amid signs Democrats may be backing down on their outright opposition to the levy.

Chairman Sarraf (D-Allegheny) said there was "no question the House Ways and Means Committee would approve the measure at a 2 or 3 per cent rate during the day."

House Democratic Floor Leader Readinger said he would urge House Democrats to vote for the sales tax as a necessary alternate "to state bankruptcy."

Dent Supports Bill
Senate Democratic Floor leader Dent said he himself would help Republicans pass the levy in the Senate despite Gov. Leader's long opposition to the tax.

"When he is faced by bankruptcy or blackmail, he has to accede to the demands of the Republican Senate and keep hospitals and schools open. The governor is being forced to lie down prostrate to the dictatorial demands of a Republican Senate," Dent declared.

The decision to push for sales tax action in the House came last night after Senate Republicans rejected Leader's offer to approve a Republican sales tax to raise half of the commonwealth's tax needs if the GOP would agree to

$13,827.83 IN AID RETURNED VOLUNTARILY

Adams County's general prosperity is reflected in the records of the Adams County Board of Assistance, the board noted Monday evening at a meeting in the assistance offices on N. Washington St.

The current load of 485 cases affecting 817 people is a decline of 65 cases and 128 people from last year at the same time.

"A general survey of the anticipated needs for the next four months led the board to conclude that "the county has a very stable economy."

The board received a report of income received by the assistance board during the year from the settlement of various estates and in voluntary returns made by individuals who obtained assistance and then when they were again employed paid back part or all of the aid they had obtained.

Mrs. Verna Myers, director of assistance for the county, reported a total of $13,827.83 returned during the year under voluntary plans. The commonwealth also secured $711.37 from persons on whom they had placed claims.

Mrs. J. Kermit Herter, secretary of the board, and Mrs. Myers were named to represent the board at the meetings of the Adams County Council of Community Services.

Miss Rae Lehman, Harrisburg, representative for the secretary of assistance to the local board and boards in five other counties, attended Monday's meeting.

PROPOSED FOR V.P.

Laurence K. Reth of McSherrystown has been recommended for appointment as justice of the peace in McSherrystown borough. The name has been sent by Governor Leader to the Senate for confirmation.

The January Grand Jury Monday afternoon recommended replacement of the present buildings at the county home and termed some of the conditions at the home "deplorable."

The report supports the action of the commissioners over the last several years in working out a long range plan that calls for modernization of the home.

The actual wording of the grand jury report was: "The grand jury recommends that the county commissioners institute a thorough study of the county home with the idea of eventual replacement of all buildings, and in the meantime repair and renovate as much as possible, especially in the kitchen area."

Want RN There

From their observations at the home Monday the jury added: "The jury also recommends that the commissioners study the possibility of placing noisy guests, or ones with annoying habits, in quarters separate from other guests."

Recommendation was also made that "the commissioners immediately secure the services of a full time registered nurse at the county home. That they place fans in hallways for ventilation, replace the wagon shed and replace lightning rods on the barn."

Concluding the portion of the report pertaining to the county home the jury added: "The jury feels that the word which would best describe some of the conditions at the county home is 'deplorable.'"

The jury also recommended the placing of plaster on the ceiling above the cell switch panel at the jail and the repair of a light fixture in the trustees' cells. The reported added that the jury "would like to see some repairs made in skylights at the court house, or their replacement if they cannot be cleaned."

Signed by J. Paul Lehman, York Springs merchant who was foreman of the jury, the report concluded by noting "The jury wishes to express its appreciation to the sheriff and staff at the jail for the clean condition in which the jail is kept."

Two indictments were handed up by the Grand Jury as it concluded its activities for the day.

Melvin G. Miller, Biglerville R. D., was indicted on an assault and battery charge, before the jury began its tour of the county buildings. Upon its return, the jury found that a defendant had been secured from Maryland in the meantime and after a hearing brought an indictment against Clarence Alexander Marshall, Baltimore, on a charge of burglary.

WATER COLORS, PAINTINGS ARE SHOWN TO GUILD

Mrs. Welles Jackson, instructor in art at Gettysburg College, displayed art objects, paintings and water colors at a meeting of the Arts and Crafts Guild of Adams County Monday evening at the YWCA.

"Many artists," declared the speaker, "show completed and successful pictures to groups. Sometimes it is a good thing to show a work in progress. In this way art students and interested persons can follow the work in its various stages and better understand the techniques used."

Mrs. Jackson displayed decorated wooden plates, a wood carving of a child at prayer and a concertino player carved from soap. She showed earrings and pins made from plaster of Paris. Highlight of the display was a centerpiece for the table entitled "A Spring Fantasy." All the spring motifs were carried out with colored cellophane, pipe cleaners, paper mache, coat hangers in various shapes and other interesting devices.

Miss Anna Mae Sell, Hanover, described the Philadelphia Sketch Club, where she attended art classes. Both Mrs. Jackson and Miss Sell are new members of the Guild.

Ernest Krape, president, who presided, said there are 29 adults studying art in Gettysburg, and that 20 will start classes in Biglerville next week.

Refreshments were served. The committee included Miss Barbara Keller, Mrs. Alfred Fidler, Mrs. Donald Shetter, Mrs. Eugene Stetter and Mrs. Wilmer Diehl.

2 Hurt Slightly In Accident Here

Marie M. Weissenfuh, 34, 129 Chambersburg St., and Carl McCans, 34, 344 W. Middle St., both suffered minor injuries when their cars collided at the intersection of W. High and S. Washington Sts. Monday evening at 7:20 o'clock.

Police said Miss Weissenfuh, a teacher at Fairfield, was headed east on High St., failed to halt at the stop sign, and struck the McCans coupe headed north on S. Washington St.

After the crash the McCans car turned around and came to rest on the sidewalk against a utility pole and the porch at the home of William Holtzworth, on S. Washington St.

Damage was estimated at $400 to Miss Weissenfuh's sedan and $200 to the McCans car. Miss Weissenfuh suffered knee injuries and McCans injuries to the knees and head.

Worley Opposing Tractor Title Bill

Warning that it may be a step toward requiring titling of all farm machinery, Assemblyman Francis Worley addressed the House at Harrisburg Monday evening in opposition to House Bill 1080 which would require a certificate of title for all new farm tractors and for all present tractors sold for the second time after passage of the bill.

The bill provides for a $2 title fee and Mr. Worley said: "Mr. Speaker I don't believe that you or I would want to be responsible for legislation which will eventually place another extra financial burden on our farmers. . . . I am not going to be a party to such legislation especially when it is not going to be of any value to agriculture. Ownership can now be recorded by a bill of sale or finance papers."

He urged all House members to vote against the bill "and do something for the farmers before this session ends."

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI)—Nelly (Nelly) Rivas, teenage protege of Juan D. Peron, reportedly has been released by police on her promise not to try to join the former President in exile.

The police nabbed 16-year-old Nelly and her parents near the Paraguayan border Saturday. It

"But we are using better business methods in our purchasing. For instance, when we took over the department, we found a store room with a 10-year supply of welding rods. They are used by our maintenance departments but a 10-year supply is quite adequate. Another store room had a ton of office stationary but it was yellow with age."

Savings On Cars
"Generally our supplies are purchased on bid. We recently saved a lot of money in the purchase of new cars. The state uses approximately 32,000 cars. Formerly these were purchased in small lots but now we buy them in large quantities from the company which means we get a discount and do not pay federal tax. The present plan is to change the fleet every year. This is not as bad as it may first seem. Because we get the cars at a saving, $1,087 apiece I believe, we can drive the cars for one year and resell them for as little loss as $10 to $15 a car. This way we save two and one-half million dollars a year. Other millions are thus saved in repairs."

"In the past year we saved five and one-half million dollars from money appropriated to agencies. Our Republican friends said we saved this because we were short of funds. At any rate, we saved it."

Get Interest Money

"Another thing we changed is the handling of tax funds. Tax funds come to the state in chunks. Formerly these funds had been placed in banks without any arrangements for interest. Now we get about $100,000 in interest from these funds. Another $100,000 has been saved by revising our insurance and bondage and we get broader coverage. About 95 per cent of the paper work has been eliminated through this revision."

"At one time all state cars were required to be placed in garages overnight. By removing this compulsory feature we save $10,000 a year. By revising a certain paper form we saved $6,000 on one order. A hospital ordered a $5,000 bread slicing machine. We investigated the situation and were able to purchase a machine that met with the hospital's approval at a saving of $2,700."

"At one time the state was not taking full advantage of federal surplus commodities. By providing additional warehouse space, $10,000, 000 of surplus commodities have been made available to institutions throughout the state, saving them about $6,000,000."

New Social Security

"Someone had forgotten that many of the patients in our mental hospitals are entitled to social security, but now the state receives $750,000 of social security to assist in the care of these people."

"Boxing in the state had gotten into bad shape, but the new boxing code will go a long way in cleaning up that sport. Upon investigation we found that there were three times as many bureaus and departments responsible to the governor than there were in the federal government responsible to the President. That certainly is not an efficient way to run a government. Reorganization was needed. These are some of the things the present administration has done in the past year."

Rice declared.

50 DAIRYMEN GET ADVICE ON BEST PRACTICES

Fifty Adams County farmers, attending the annual Dairy Day program held by the Agricultural Extension Association of the county at the court house today learned among other things that farmers should stay out of the other farmer's barns and that cows themselves are the best indicators of quality in roughage.

Dr. Samuel Guss, extension veterinarian from Pennsylvania State University, told farmers they could save on their veterinarian bills by "simply following the practices of good management."

A comfortable cow is less likely to become ill, he noted: "Study your cattle to understand them and their habits. If you can make them comfortable you will find it pays off in increased production and lower incidence of disease."

Much disease is brought into a herd by the introduction of new animals, Dr. Guss held, urging farmers to "separate new animals from the herd for 30 days to make sure they have no diseases before putting them in with the rest of the herd. You will find it pays off."

Poultrymen learned long ago that disease can be brought into the hen house by persons arriving from other poultry farms. Today, he noted, "practically everyone knows that and no farmer would think of entering his neighbor's hen house without disinfecting, and only on invitation. The same should hold true of the stable. Veterinarians and men from the artificial breeding cooperatives know that and disinfect regularly before entering another stable. But many farmers and even some dealers don't follow that practice and they can carry disease from one stable to another."

Richard Adams, extension dairy specialist from Pennsylvania State University, told the group "high quality roughage comes from a crop that is cut early, properly cured and stored. Your best indicator is the amount of roughage your cattle eat. If it's good generally they will find it very appetizing. If they don't like it, then you can be sure it is not a quality product."

The program continued with more talks by the two men this afternoon.

CITES WORK OF COUNTY YMCA

The work of the YMCA in Adams County was outlined Monday evening at the dinner-meeting of the local Rotary Club in the YWCA by Theodore Townsend, director for the county's newly organized YMCA unit.

Programming has been stressed so far in the establishment of YMCA work in the county, Townsend said. YMCA groups have been organized in Gettysburg, Biglerville, New Oxford and East Berlin, he reported, and in June, the "young people of the county will meet for a four-day session at Gettysburg College" on "Y" work. Contributions by countians toward the work last year totalled $400. This year the YMCA is seeking $1,000 for its work, Townsend said.

In response to questions Townsend said the county could support a YMCA building but "the thing to stress now is program rather than getting saddled with a mortgage."

Rev. Victor K. Meredith Jr. introduced the speaker. President Philip M. Jones presided. Roland Schriver was introduced as the new student member of the club. Dr. Kenneth Smoke and Dr. Fred Shaffer conducted group singing.

"WINTER HOURS"

With the thread of winter hours . . . I weave dreams of days gone by . . . precious moments long since faded . . . memories that never die . . . at my desk I sit and ponder . . . as the wind blows loud and long . . . while Jack Frost paints magic pictures . . . to the cold wind's plaintive song . . . all the earth looks drab and dreary . . . for Dame Nature is asleep . . . resting to fulfill a promise . . . that each year she's sworn to keep . . . on I weave as skies grow hazy . . . and my thoughts grow misty too . . . for I'm getting somewhat tired . . . dreaming dreams that won't come true . . . interlaced in winter hours . . . and memory begins to ebb . . . but I am a willing captive . . . in the winter's wondrous web.

Albert J. Bair, local chapter vice president, presented a plaque to Wilbur E. Mackley, in recognition of his cooperation in helping stage many of the Jaycee projects. A report of the various projects during the past year, was given by President Breighner. Ralph R. Ruggles Jr., first president of the local chapter, presented gifts to Mr. Peters from the 20 different industries of the community. The affair concluded with prayer by the Rev. Mr. Koons.

The Jaycees will hold their next regular dinner meeting on Monday, February 6, 6:30 p.m., at Schottie's Hotel.

Want something different for the ladies' lunch? Serve cold sliced turkey or chicken plus ham with French toasted cranberry sandwiches. To make the sandwiches, layer jellied cranberry sauce between slices of white bread; dip the sandwiches in a regular French toasted mixture of egg, milk, salt and sugar. Brown the sandwiches in butter and then cut into small triangles. And a big mixed green salad to this menu, coffee and rich cookies and you'll have something good! A bowl of fresh fruit might also be in evidence for weight-watchers who eschew the cookies.

Weather Forecast

Extended forecast for Wednesday, Jan. 18, through Sunday, Jan. 22:

Eastern Pennsylvania, eastern New York and Midatlantic states: Temperature will average 3-6 degrees below normal, mostly cold Wednesday and Thursday, colder Friday, warmer Sunday. Snow in north and snow or rain in south Thursday, probably beginning south late Wednesday, total precipitation one-tenth to four-tenths of an inch.

Western Pennsylvania, western New York, Ohio and West Virginia: Temperatures will average 3-6 below normal, continued mostly cold Thursday and Friday, warmer Saturday or Sunday, snow Thursday and beginning in south Wednesday, snow again Saturday or Sunday, total precipitation two-tenths to five-tenths of an inch.

Sliced fresh pears are delightful added to a compote of pineapple, oranges, grapefruit and fresh dates. Put the fruit combination in your best glass bowl and serve as a company dessert. Use small pieces of canned pineapple rather than the crushed fruit for appearance sake. Have the oranges and grapefruit cut into membranefree sections. Pit the fresh dates and silver them. Add some maraschino cherries, if you like, for extra-pretty color.

HIGHWAY EMPLOYEE KILLED

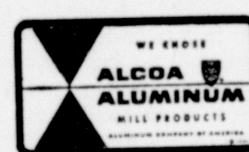

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Elmer Rex, 53, of Slatington R.D. 2 was killed today on Rt. 309 about 2½ miles north of New Tripoli in Lehigh County.

Rex was an employee of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. He had gotten out of a Highways Department truck and was preparing to spread cinders on the highway when the accident occurred.

Rex was struck by a tractor-trailer operated by Myron Boyer, 27, of New Ringold R.D. 1 and killed instantly. Boyer said he attempted to swerve when he saw the truck but that the truck trailer jackknifed and the trailer portion struck Rex.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times
FIFTY YEARS AGO

Interesting Local Jottings: An eight-year old son of Calvin Fox, of Hendrix Station, who is suffering from appendicitis, underwent an operation Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Dr. Edward Messinheider, of York, performed the operation, being assisted by Dr. J. L. Sheetz and son, Dr. John Snyder and Dr. Seaks, of New Oxford. The operation was a success.

Augustus Mehring, of Littlestown, had quite a surprise the other day when after putting fresh wood in the stove there was an explosion which blew the lids off the stove and came near resulting in a fire. It is supposed that powder had been placed in the wood. Who was the perpetrator is not known.

Deaths And Funerals: The western portion of Gettysburg was shocked Friday morning when the sad intelligence spread about that Mrs. Mary McDannell, wife of ex-policeman James McDannell, had died at her home at five o'clock this morning, aged 29 years, 6 months and 8 days.

Mrs. McDannell had been a sufferer at intervals for several months with pain in the head, being intense at times. This was thought to be due to imperfect vision and a specialist was consulted, but no relief was obtained. It was finally determined that the trouble was due to a tumor at the base of the brain which terminated in convulsions and resulted in death, as above stated.

Nickey: John Nickey, a highly respected and honored citizen of Reading township, died at his home near Hampton, at 12:10 o'clock Sunday morning, Jan. 7th, from blood poison. Mr. Nickey accidentally scratched one of his hands on Saturday, Dec. 30, but paid little attention to the wound as it caused no great amount of suffering.

A few days later, however, the wound became very painful and much inflamed, blood poison having set in and he was obliged to take his bed Thursday, and although everything was done to relieve him, the disease spread through his system and he died at the time above mentioned.

Deardorff: Mrs. Leanna Deardorff, of Butler township, died on Saturday the 6th inst., after long suffering from a complication of diseases, aged 71 years, 4 months and 22 days.

New Physician For Biglerville: Dr. J. H. Hildebrand will locate in Biglerville this week. Dr. Hildebrand is a graduate of the Southern University and has successfully passed all state examinations, duly qualifying him to practice medicine. Biglerville can well feel proud of securing his service as he has been very successful in his practice.

Will Wed Jan. 31st: Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Frances Stonebraker, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Stonebraker, and Robert C. Neely. The ceremony will take place at 12 o'clock, Wednesday, January 31, in St. John's Reformed church, Fairfield. A reception will be held from 12:30 to 3 o'clock.

Remarried And Crowned With Emblems: Mr. and Mrs. James Devine, of Edge Grove, were remarried and crowned with golden emblems in honor of their fifth wedding anniversary, in Coneyago chapel Monday morning. Rev. Father Eugene Hafnermeyer, the rector, officiated, in the presence of many invited guests, including the bridesmaid of fifty years ago, Mrs. Maria Eckenrode, of Pikeville, Md.

The venerable pair were married in the same church, January 15, 1856, by Rev. Fr. Joseph Enders.

A Good Record: Hon. W. Ross White was last week re-elected a director in the Adams County Mutual Fire Insurance Company for the 42nd consecutive time. Mr. White has been engaged longer in the insurance business than any other man in the county. Although advanced in years he is a live

Today's Talk

A PORTRAIT
She used to take my hand and we would take walks in the little town, and she would tell me about the time when she was a little girl, what she did, and the things she thought about.

As I grew older and learned to do things about the house and in the yard, I took new interest in all that she did. It seemed that she never rested for a single moment or ever complained about being tired.

Her spirit followed me to school the first day, and stayed with me until that larger school of life was reached and I was on my own. She kissed me goodbye as I left for the big city. It was then but a brief period to when she went away from me forever, leaving me very much alone. How well I remember that last day. Had the most priceless pearls been placed about her throat they would not have enhanced her beauty. Her shoulders were slightly bent from daily toil but her face held serenity. The broad brow was full of furrows — more lovely than the path of the stars.

You could feel the gold in her heart as she smiled. Her hands were work hands and had warmed her seven babies. Whatever she did, wherever she might be, she did for someone else. She was selfless, never sparing herself. If she imagined that I, or anyone, somewhere was hungry she could not eat.

She had a fine sense of humor. She wrote good poetry, loved books, and gave painting lessons to the youth in our town, and all free. We talked of the great, the near great, and the never-to-be-great. We used to read the poems of Thomas Moore together and many others. Everyone loved my mother. All this is but an inadequate portrait that I have sketched. I thought of this wonderful mother this morning as I awoke, and listened to the songs and chatter of the birds outside my bedroom window. She loved everything beautiful and had such gently ways. I never knew my mother to be idle — there was always so much to do!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Dignity".

PROBLEM SETTLED

"Suppose," his father said, "you had a disobedient little lad. And I were here; the father you. To punish me what would you do?"

"Would you say spanked I ought to be?"
"No, that I wouldn't say," said he.
"Remember now, I've disobeyed. Should my allowance still be paid?"

"Or would you sternly take away for punishment a full week's pay?"
"No, dad," said he. "If I were you, that's something I would never do."

"Were you the father, I the son. And you knew something must be done.
Would you refuse three nights to let him watch the television set?"
"No, no," he said, and twirled his hat.
"I wouldn't be as mean as that."

"Remember, you're the troubled dad. Your little boy was very bad. And he has been sent in to you. In such a case what would you do?"
He answered, with an upward glance:
"I'd give the boy another chance."

RATE INCREASE FOR BELL CO. IS SUSPENDED

HARRISBURG (AP)—A 36 million dollar annual rate increase proposed by the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania was under a six month Public Utility Commission suspension today.

The boost, which would effect 2,300,000 subscribers throughout the state, was proposed effective March 14. The OUC said it ordered the suspension yesterday for investigation.

The suspension expires Sept. 14. Public hearings will open in Harrisburg as soon as possible to determine justification of the proposed increase, largest ever submitted to the OUC by a Pennsylvania utility.

Proposed Rate Hikes
Bell's new schedule would raise base monthly local service rates in amounts ranging from 60 cents to $1.35 for residential subscribers and from $1.50 to $3 for business users. The changes do not include the 10 per cent federal excise tax.

Long distance toll calls and coin box rates are not involved. The increase is the first sought by Bell since 1952 when the PUC cut the firm's request boost by $11,782,000 to $21,227,000. Bell said the new rates would raise its annual income by 16 million dollars after taxes.

Operating Expense Up
To support last week's request for the boost, Bell said operating expense, on a per telephone basis, has been increasing at a 50 per cent greater rate than revenue since mid-1952.

The firm added that its total investment, per telephone, has been rising steadily because new equipment has cost "substantially more" than facilities in service for years. That means a "higher charge per telephone is needed," the firm contended.

With the increase, Bell added, telephone rates will have gone up "only 43 per cent" since 1940 as contrasted with a 54 per cent rise in the cost of living in Pennsylvania for the same period.

Bell said the increases are designed to "distribute the additional revenue requirements as broadly as practicable over the major exchange service furnished by the company."

uniforms. Every donation will help — even if it covers only the cost of a single uniform, $39.25, or a part of that amount."

The Band Boosters several years ago raised funds for uniforming the Senior High School band. The Junior High band had been using the discarded uniforms formerly used by the senior band, plus new caps bought a year ago. The Band Boosters decided to offer the present Junior High uniforms for sale at $7 each as soon as the new outfits arrive. There are 60 of the old uniforms.

The group decided to investigate the possibility of stocking a supply of Prom peanuts, like those sold last fall by the band. There would not be a door-to-door canvass but the peanuts would be available through band members as a money-raising project.

Treasurer Paul Snyder reported a treasury balance of $1,281. The uniform fund contains about $900.

ICE-CAPADES TO PLAY HERSHEY

HERSHEY, Pa. — Back for his fourteenth season with Ice Capades, Bobby Specht, will be seen again as the male star of the John H. Harris frozen spectacle at Hershey Sports Arena Thursday, February 16, through February 28.

This is the first season that he has missed being cast in the show's "spectacular," but since there is no romantic interest in "Peter Pan," Specht will display his skating talents in two other colorfully staged numbers.

He does his solo in a sequence called "Caged Beauty," in which he appears as an animal trainer, complete with cage and four black panthers in the person of costumed Ice Capades.

He is also teamed with Donna Atwood, the feminine star of the show, in a flashing number, "Fantasy in Pink," in which they skate to the pulsating rhythms of Ravel's "Bolero."

Miss Atwood, who is making her farewell tour with the company, essays the title role in "Peter Pan," which Ice Capades has condensed from the Broadway and television version which was done by Mary Martin. Featuring thrilling flying sequences, in which Miss Atwood and the children soar high above the ice, the capsule presentation features all of the story's characters, including Captain Hook, the Indians, the Pirates, and the many animals.

Other returning favorites include: The Old Smoothies, Rosemary and Bobby Maxson, Helen Davidson, Alan Konrad, the Maxwells, Forgie and Larsen, Jackson and Lynam and Eddie Runyon.

Seven Leader Bills Killed By Assembly

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General Assembly has killed the third of seven governmental reorganization plans offered by Gov. Leader un-Sentz der the 1955 reorganization law. The House voted unanimously last night, without debate, to disapprove a proposal to transfer responsibility for replanting strip mining areas from the Mines to Forests and Waters Department.

Rep. Readinger, Democratic leader, suggested opposition to the plan because it "was improperly drawn and does not reflect the intention of the administration."

He said a substitute would be submitted at a later date after the plan suggested by the governor on Dec. 20 was disposed of.

Junior High Cagers Will Host Waynesboro Tonight; GHS Squads Visit Indians

Tonight the Gettysburg Junior High cagers play their first home game when they meet Waynesboro in a South Penn League game.

Ned Brownley's varsity has dropped two games and is 0-1 in league competition. Waynesboro has split even in two league tussles.

At 6:30 the junior varsity squads will meet.

Meanwhile Coach George Forney's high school Warriors travel to Waynesboro to meet Harry Pure's Indians.

The Warriors have dropped three straight in league play to Middletown, Carlisle and Chambersburg, all of whom are tied for first place with 3-0 records.

Waynesboro topped Mechanicsburg before losing to Hanover and Hershey. Coach Pure has two regulars from last year, Carroll Hartle, who holds the league record on foul conversions, and Allie Kohler, a good rebounder.

May Escape Cellar
A win for the Warriors tonight would lift them from the league cellar they now occupy with Mechanicsburg.

Other South Penn games tonight find Hanover at Chambersburg, Mechanicsburg at Middletown, and Hershey at Carlisle.

The usual full round of games in the Adams County Boys' loop is scheduled for this evening.

Bolling Springs (4-0), pace-setters, invade New Oxford (3-1) for the top attraction. A win for the Bollingers would make them odds-on favorites for their fourth straight championship.

Remaining games are Littlestown (3-1) at Newville (1-3), Fairfield (1-3) at Biglerville (1-3), and York Springs (0-4) at East Berlin (3-1).

Delone Has Busy Week
Delone Catholic (5-6) opens a three-game program during the week by entertaining Lancaster Catholic at McSherrystown this evening in a Central Pennsylvania Catholic League game.

The Squires meet St. Edwards at Shamokin Thursday and play at Mt. Carmel Friday in additional league contests. Completing today's schedule will be East Berlin Junior High at York Springs.

Other scholastic games for the remainder of the week are as follows: Wednesday — Northern Joint at York Springs Junior High.

Thursday — Delone Junior High at Harrisburg Catholic.

Wrestling At Biglerville
Biglerville High School's undefeated wrestling squad tangles with Central Dauphin at Biglerville Thursday evening in a Section II meet.

With Gettysburg College teams idle due to examinations, the only collegiate activity this week will be at Emmitsburg where the Mountaineers meet Baltimore University Wednesday evening and Loyola on Saturday.

BOXING GUILD IN NEW YORK "INOPERATIVE"

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — The Boxing Guild of New York went on the "inoperative" list today with the resignation of every important licensed manager piled on the desk of Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Helfand signaled the final step of his victory over the guild yesterday when he announced, "For all practical purposes it is inoperative." He said all licensed managers "with the possible exception of one or two" had quit the broken guild. He had set a Jan. 16 for all to resign or lose their licenses.

He had to say "except possibly one or two" because the commission wasn't positive if some of the 75 men carried on the guild list actually belonged. The list was turned over to the commission under subpoena.

57 Resignations
Helfand reported 57 resignations last night and said he had word a few more were on the way. Almost all of the remaining 18 do not hold New York licenses. In several cases, the licenses were revoked or suspended during the nine-month inquiry.

Charlie Johnston, president of the International Boxing Guild of which the New York Guild is an affiliate, wired his resignation from San Francisco. There was no indication Johnston planned to give up his office in the international guild, now under federal indictment on charges of violating the antitrust law. Bill Daly, secretary-

SAN FRANCISCO DONS GET TOP SPOT 6TH WEEK

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
You have to string along with a winner—especially when the winner carries it to record lengths—so the amazing Dons of San Francisco University are rated as the nation's leading college basketball team for the sixth straight week today.

The nation's sports writers and broadcasters picked them by a margin of nearly 150 points over equally unbeaten Dayton.

San Francisco racked up victories over Santa Clara and Fresno State last week to run its two-season winning streak to 39 straight games. That equaled the major college record, held by Long Island University and Seton Hall.

Kentucky Up To 4th
Kentucky moved ahead of Vanderbilt into fourth place in the rankings. Illinois pushed into sixth ahead of Duke, Temple, the third unbeaten major team, took over eighth and Louisville moved into the top 10.

Apparently these changes weren't just a matter of wins and losses, for the only displaced team that lost a game was Ohio State, which dropped from seventh to 11th after being thumped by Iowa early last week.

North Carolina State, a one-time loser, clung to third place, well in front of Kentucky.

Illinois' thumping 96-72 victory over Indiana apparently impressed the voters more than Duke's three wins. Louisville caught their eyes by beating Notre Dame and Valparaiso to run up a 13-1 record.

The leaders, with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. San Francisco (87) — 1,257
2. Dayton (13) — 1,110
3. N. C. State (9) — 829
4. Kentucky (9) — 615
5. Vanderbilt (6) — 526

NEW LITTLE LOOP FORMED

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The independent Little Tar Heel League was formed last night by a number of members who announced they have broken off relations with the national Little League Baseball organization.

Bill White of Greensboro was named temporary chairman of a steering committee which will draw up bylaws and a constitution for the new group.

Sam Howard of Raleigh, a member of the committee, said the new organization was formed by members who had withdrawn from the national Little League.

The new organization will be modeled after the national organization with boys between 9 and 12 years of age eligible.

White said the statewide setup was formed because of differences over policy with the Little League. He said these included such things as having the season end in mid-July and prohibiting the playing of night ball.

In the South, he said, the baseball season for the youngsters should be longer and often it is too hot to play ball in the daytime.

He said play by members of the Little Tar Heel League would end at the state level with a state champion.

Have You Seen This Fugitive?

He is one of the ten most wanted men by the FBI

Palmer Julius Morset

This is the second in a series of 10 articles which The Gettysburg Times will publish in co-operation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) on the ten most wanted fugitives. The articles, to be published each week, are presented with the hope that they may lead to the apprehension of these public enemies.

PALMER JULIUS MORSET

A reformed horse thief with a passion for guns is one of the most eagerly sought after criminals on the FBI's list of the "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." Early in his career, MORSET found that there was no future in stealing horses, particularly when he spent two years for this offense in the State Reformatory at Lincoln, Nebraska. Upon his release, he turned to armed robbery but was also unsuccessful in his field, being sentenced to a term of one year to life at the Illinois State Prison in November 1928. However, he was released in May 1940 and to all appearances had reformed, but on March 20, 1950, MORSET and an accomplice robbed a finance company in broad daylight in Chicago, Ill.

Breaks Bail Bond

Local police officers responding to the alarm spotted MORSET and a companion fleeing from the scene of the holdup. A wild chase ensued, with the bandit car crashing into a pole and trapping both holdup men until the arrival of police. MORSET was charged with robbery and released on bail but failed to appear for trial, and his bond was forfeited.

Local authorities learned that he had fled the State of Illinois and secured the assistance of the FBI under the Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution Statute. MORSET has the reputation of being a lone wolf and commits his holdups on the spur of the moment. He gets into his automobile, rides around, and if a place looks good he commits the robbery.

The fugitive dresses well and exhibits a preference for brown clothing. He frequents taverns which feature entertainment, particularly "girl shows." Normally, MORSET is inclined to be quiet and keep to himself and is very personable and friendly when sober but dangerous and antagonistic when intoxicated.

Restless And Nervous

The fugitive has been described as a restless, nervous, immature person who acts impulsively and must be considered extremely dangerous. He has a passion for guns and is heavily armed at all times.

Seek Larger Crew In Railroad Switching

HARRISBURG (P)—New bipartisan legislation to require crews of at least five men on locomotives used in switching cars in railroad yards was introduced in the Senate last night by Sens. Dent (D—Westmoreland) and Scott (R—Carbon). Other new Senate bills would: appropriate $20,000 to the Department of Forests and Waters for restoration and rebuilding of the Provost Guard House along the Port Kennedy road in Valley Forge Park—Stiefel (D—Phila.) and Chapman (R—Warren).

Provide for the exercise of discretion by the state Liquor Control Board in the forfeiture of property used for illegal manufacture or transportation of alcoholic beverages—Barr (D—Allegheny) and Scott.

Define powers of custodians of gifts of securities to minors—Dent.

New TB Drug Can Replace Baldness

ICHIKAWA, Japan (P)—A Japanese research institute today reported a tuberculosis-treatment drug has proved extremely effective in growing hair on bald heads—"it used persistently."

The Chemotherapy Institute said the drug, identified only as "cepharantin," had grown hair on 210 of 300 bald men and women in six months of experiments.

"But," said a spokesman, "patients must use it very persistently. If it is to grow hair, they must take it orally, get it via injection, and rub it liberally on their heads."

IKE'S REQUEST CUTS DEMANDS FOR TAX SLASH

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower appeared today to have quieted for the present at least demands in Congress for a general tax reduction in this election year. But his requests for an increase in appropriations drew fire from many Democrats. Republicans, on the other hand, praised his estimates that the budget will be balanced.

With Eisenhower urging "prudence" on tax slashing that would unbalance the budget, Democrats for the most part adopted a cautious attitude until first-quarter tax receipts are counted and the revenue picture jells.

Asked Cooperation

Eisenhower yesterday sent to Congress a balanced budget for this year and next based on continuation of present tax rates.

His figures called for government income of $64,500,000,000 and outgo of $64,270,000,000, with a surplus of 230 millions, in this bookkeeping year ending June 30.

For the following year, ending June 30, 1957, he estimated federal income at $66,300,000,000 against spending of $65,865,000,000, for a surplus of 435 millions.

He told Congress the surplus should go toward reducing the national debt, and asked for "the utmost cooperation" in keeping the government in the black.

To Wait And See

Sen. George (D-Ga.), an advocate of tax reduction for taxpayers in the low and middle-income groups, said, "We'll have to wait until the figures are in for the first quarter of the year."

"Nobody wants a tax cut if it's going to create a deficit," he said, but added:

"I'm still very hopeful we can have a tax cut."

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee said he was disappointed because the budget offered "no hope, no prospect whatever of a reduction in taxes."

Byrd Disappointed

Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance Committee said he is "disturbed and disappointed" by increased government spending based "on the premise, apparently, that the present boom will continue, and this no one can predict."

GOP House Leader Martin of Massachusetts called the prospective balanced budget "a major achievement." Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, said Eisenhower "has made good the balanced budget pledge."

Meanwhile, an income tax relief bill for farmers was introduced by

Battle Of The Pulpits

Divided congregation supporters split between Rev. Robert Thomas and the controversial Rev. William Howard Melish as the Episcopal ministers occupy pulpits simultaneously in Brooklyn's Church of the Holy Trinity Sunday. Ruling Bishop James DeWolf named Rev. Thomas as the church's rector over Rev. Melish, accused of left wing activities which he repeatedly has denied. Vestrymen are still split over the issue. Result is dual ministers and a divided congregation. (AP Wirephoto)

Rep. Cooper (R-Tenn.) in what appeared to be a counter to Eisenhower's proposal to exempt from the 2-cents-a-gallon federal tax gasoline used on farms.

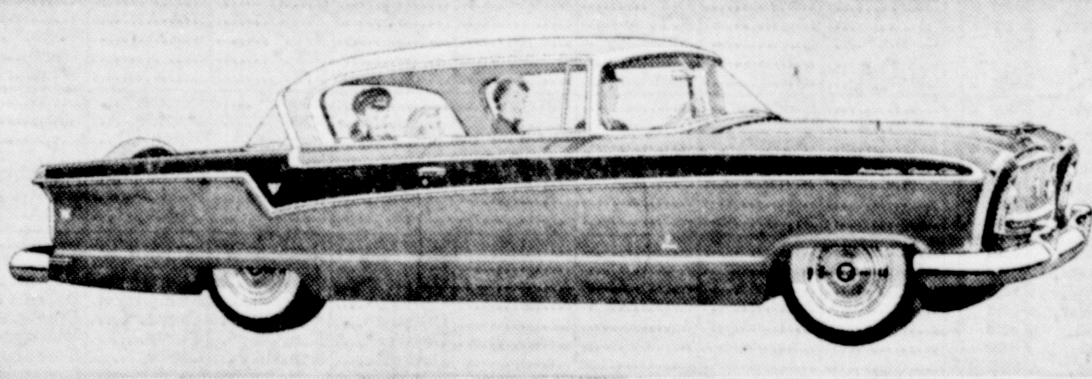

Advocating more "direct and immediate" farm relief, Cooper proposed a new optional income tax deduction to benefit farmers grossing less than $10,000 a year.

Call More Hearings On Railroad Service

HARRISBURG (P)—The Public Utility Commission will hold another round of public hearings in Williamsport Feb. 6-7-8 on a Pennsylvania Railroad proposal to drop three of its seven passenger trains between Williamsport and Harrisburg. Another hearing will be held Feb. 9 in the Lycoming County courthouse on the company's plan to abandon passenger service on the Pennsylvania portion of its run between Williamsport and Canadigua, N. Y. The company contends it is operating the trains at a substantial loss.

SEN. GEORGE HITS "BRINK OF WAR" POLICY

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today American foreign policy should be to "go as far away as we can in justice and honor from any danger of involvement in war."

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and chief congressional spokesman for the Democrats on international matters, thus took indirect issue with the "brink of war" statements ascribed to Secretary of State Dulles.

Democrats, including Speaker of the House Rayburn of Texas, have called "dangerous" the statements attributed to Dulles in a Life magazine article. Dulles was quoted as saying the ability to go to the verge of war and yet avoid conflict is a "necessary art" of diplomacy. The secretary has verified the accuracy of the quotes in their substance.

Republicans Back Him

Republicans, including Vice President Nixon, have ranged in support of Dulles in this controversy. The magazine article was greeted with strong criticisms and expressions of dismay in the British press.

And today the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda was quoted by the Moscow radio as declaring the article shows Dulles wants to maintain "international tension on the brink of war."

To State His Views

George told newsmen he is not concerned primarily about the statements in the article because he said they may be subject to "qualification or modification."

But because of the controversy and international reaction that stemmed from the article, George said he intends to state his views to the Senate.

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said in a separate interview he would like to know Dulles' purpose in approving publication at this time of an article in which he was represented as saying that the nation three times had faced war in Asia and had avoided it by his and President Eisenhower's efforts.

"If the secretary wants bipartisanship on foreign policy—and I am sure he does—I can't see why he releases an article of this kind," Mansfield said.

"Political Dust Storm"

Rayburn said Dulles' actions had added up to "a dangerous performance for the country" which he said might leave the United States with fewer world friends.

But Sen. Thye (R-Minn.) accused

STEEL TO USE THREE BILLION FOR EXPANSION

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel industry plans to spend about three billion dollars over the next three years to expand productive capacity by 15 million tons, an industry survey shows.

Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the Iron and Steel Institute, announced the survey results yesterday and said they forecast the biggest three-year expansion program in the industry's history.

For the past 10 years steel companies have been expanding at the rate of about 3½ million tons a year and have spent seven million dollars on expansion and modernization, Fairless said.

Follow GM

The increase in the expansion rate, he said, shows the industry's confidence in the economic growth of the nation. The over-all steel industry expansion plans were announced a short time after General Motors Corp. disclosed that it intends to spend one billion dollars on expansion and improvements this year.

Fairless said many of the steel expansion programs were already under way. He estimated that money spent for expansion this year would amount to about $1.

of the nation.

The over-all steel industry expansion plans were announced a short time after General Motors Corp. disclosed that it intends to spend one billion dollars on expansion and improvements this year.

Fairless said many of the steel expansion programs were already under way. He estimated that money spent for expansion this year would amount to about $1.

200,000,000. He said:

Involves Big Problems

"The new expansion will involve great engineering, industrial and financial problems. Companies must again seek new sources of ores, open additional new mines and construct new taconite processing facilities. New sources of raw materials necessitate construction of new railroads and ships. This is in addition to construction of new blast furnaces, rolling mills and other finishing equipment.

"Steel's greatest problem is to get the money required to carry the expansion that the country expects."

Since the end of World War II, the nation's steel capacity has been raised by 35 million tons, or 40 per cent, to a total of 128 million tons. Projects planned for the next three years would bring total capacity to 143 million tons.

UP FOR CONFIRMATION

HARRISBURG (AP)—The names of seven of Gov. Leader's nominees to the state Veterans Commission were before the Senate today for confirmation.

John F. Stay, Philadelphia; Samuel R. Di Francesco, Johnstown; Raymond J. Hogenmiller, Smithton; James E. Hart, Philadelphia; Leon Sachs, Philadelphia; William B. Freeland, Halifax; and Marlan O. Walter, Millersburg.

SCHOOL MONEY BILL IS READY TO ALLOW LOAN

HARRISBURG (AP)—A leading House Republican put the finishing touches today on a bill that would authorize the borrowing of money from the Motor Vehicle Fund to pay overdue state aid to schools.

Rep. Johnson, GOP assistant floor leader, said he would introduce legislation to authorize the transfer after learning that the attorney general had ruled against the plan without appropriate legislation.

To Ease Squeeze

"My understanding is that the attorney general ruled legislation is necessary in order to borrow money from the motor license fund," Rep. Polen (D-Washington), chairman of the Appropriations Committee, told the House last night.

Polen said last month that such a transfer of unallocated funds would be possible to help ease the squeeze created by the 133 million dollars owed by the state to local school districts.

The Motor Vehicle Fund, used for highway purposes only has about 50 to 60 million dollars in unallocated funds.

Send Bill Back

"I have a bill being prepared to give authority for such borrowing because there is such an urgent need for the schools to get the money," Johnson said.

The comments were made before the House voted 98-85, along party lines, to return to the Appropriations Committee a Senate bill to permit the state to borrow 133 million dollars on tax anticipation notes to pay the schools.

Polen said it is possible the amount won't be needed in borrowing power and pointed out that the interest rate would be very high on

Emmitsburg

EMMITTSBURG: President Herbert W. Rogers presided over the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Company held in the fire hall. 35 members were in attendance.

Chief John S. Hollinger reported that 36 fires had been extinguished during 1955, 12 less than in 1954. 30 calls were in rural areas: Four were in Pennsylvania; there were 31 day calls and five night calls. Damage totalled $3,200.

The chief disclosed that 664 man hours were consumed in fighting the fires, six pumping hours and many more hours were spent in schooling, practicing and caring for equipment. The total number of miles traveled during the year was 185 and the average number of men present at each fire was 27½. There were 10 chimney fires, four miscellaneous buildings, three automobiles, two electrical, one barn and one farm machine.

Two new members Charles Keepers and William Kaas were voted into the organization. J. William Rowe and Kermit Lowe were appointed delegates to the Community Fund. It was decided to purchase six more sets of protective clothing for the active members.

Differ On Dates

Under questioning from Johnson, Polen told the House that he had said state payments to schools would begin within five or six days after the general appropriation bill was approved.

The compromise 566 million dollars general appropriation for education was signed into law by Gov. Leader on Dec. 22.

Polen replied that he was "not in possession of all the facts" when he made the statement. Leader has fixed "about Feb. 10" as the earliest date on which state payments could begin.

The local club has again entered the Pen-Mar Baseball League.

The Emmitsburg High School basketball team recently defeated the Thurmont cagers 48-47 on the home court. The game was decided after an overtime period. Clarence Ancarrow was the big gun for the Blue and White, scoring 19 tallies. Alfred Hahn scored the clinching field goal a few seconds before the final whistle.

and Adult Stations, established by the Library throughout the county and serviced by the Bookmobile in addition to the service rendered the 7 School Jointures.

The four Branches are located in Biglerville, Bendersville, Hunt-erstown, and New Oxford. They occupy accommodations provided rent free, and are open at least one or two evenings or afternoons a week with a local resident voluntarily in charge of the withdrawal and return of books.

The 9 Adult Stations occupy allotted space in business places and homes in Orrtanna, McSherrystown, Hampton, Piney Mountain Inn, Cross Keys, Flora Dale, Idaville, Mt. Newman, and Hoffman's Orphanage. Books may be withdrawn or returned at times fixed by those in charge of the stations, all of which service is given gratuitously.

From the rented, cramped quarters heretofore mentioned the library now occupies its own home. After carefully considering the suitability of various properties, the one finally purchased was agreed upon because of its expansion possibilities. Each year, since occupancy, improvements have been going forward, particularly on the interior, with a view to providing the most modern library accommodations and facilities.

Completing Stock Room

At this writing a commodious and attractive stock room is nearing completion. A substantial, well-built garage, recently completed, adjoins the stock room. This garage houses the bookmobile, and is so constructed that one can step from the latter into the stock room, and vice versa, by merely passing through a doorway. Loading and unloading the bookmobile are thus facilitated and expedited.

Other improvements to meet the demands of this growing institution are in progress, or in contemplation. The only fly in the ointment is a fluctuating, unpredictable exchequer. The truth is, the library has only a few regular and dependable sources of income, namely, our county commissioners, the Pennsylvania Legislature, Gettysburg's Community Chest and Town Council, and the County School Boards. The contributions and appropriations from the foregoing vary, but not appreciably, and without them the library would be compelled to close its doors.

When the library was established, 3,500 Adams countians testified to their interest in it by purchasing that number of yearly memberships at $1 each. This was a propitious beginning; in fact, some additional memberships have been purchased from time to time, but many more have been dropped, through oversight, no doubt, or procrastination, or because of Community Chest support. Returns from these memberships fluctuate so greatly that they cannot be counted in the dependable category which is so important to budget planning.

Seek Endowments

Referring further to the new $9,000.00 custom-made bookmobile donation, credit for this much-needed and indispensable piece of equipment goes to the Musselman Foundation, to which Adams County is indebted for so many substantial and worthwhile philanthropies. Mention should be made, too, that the foundation has been contributing $1,000.00 annually to the library, earmarked for the purchase of books.

What the library authorities have in mind, among other things, and hope will eventually materialize, is the establishment of an endowment. If a half dozen individuals, say, with sizeable estates, would remember the library in their wills, such bequests, when available, could be made the nucleus of an endowment, and, when made public, would serve as an incentive to others when providing for the distribution of their estates. Not long since the will of a well-known Adams countian, when probated, disclosed a bequest to the library. This was the first of its kind, and, may I say, inspired the above suggestion.

As I have been trying to point out, the big worry of those responsible for the administration of the Library's affairs has been, and is now, a lack of funds sufficient to meet the institution's obligations without resort to borrowing. At present the directors are burdened with a mortgage in excess of $12,000.00, with little prospect of curtailing it in the near future. And meeting the payment of emergency bank loans also is a headache.

Lauded By Newsmen

Notwithstanding the generous contributions and appropriations mentioned earlier, additional income is absolutely necessary if Adams County is to have the kind of educational and cultural institution it deserves.

That library, with its existing facilities, is one of which we can be justly proud is proved by the service it afforded many of the newspapermen while in Gettysburg covering for their papers President Eisenhower's movements and activities.

As an example of their appreciation two members of the corps, Allen Drury and Earl Mazo, of the New York Times and Herald Tribune, respectively, personally presented to the library a copy of "Lee's Lieutenants," in 3 volumes, by the Pulitzer Prize winner, Douglass Southall Freeman. This work brings Lee's military collaborators into prominence, and is a valuable addition to the library's historical collection on the Civil War.

"Expeditions And Gracious" In a letter to the Librarian, Mr. Mazo said: "You have a grand library. We are sure folks in the Gettysburg area appreciate it as much as we did."

Ray Sherer, NBC White House correspondent, whose daily "White House Story" is familiar to thousands of radio listeners, wrote the library on December 14 as follows:

"Before departing Gettysburg for our home base, Washington, I'd like to say a word about your library. Last week I asked for a copy of John O'Hara's 'Ten North Frederick,' his new novel. Your li-

Crane Boom Falls; 2 Workmen Hurt

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (P) — Two steelworkers were injured, one critically, when a crane boom collapsed while they were working on a water tank on the campus of Pennsylvania State University yesterday.

Critically injured was Charles Chaney, 24, formerly of Milford, Del. He suffered multiple body injuries. Donald Peitz, 29, formerly of DuBois, suffered injuries to both legs.

The two men are employed by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co., Pittsburgh, which is erecting the 750,000-gallon tank.

brarian said, 'It just happens that the book arrived this morning.' I asked how many people were queued up for the book. She said, 'You may be the first to read it.' I have visited a good many libraries while following the President around, and am delighted to report that yours is both the most expeditious and most gracious."

Another expression of appreciation by one of these newspapermen was that by James Deakin, of the St. Louis Post Dispatch. Reporter Deakin was so grateful for the library's help that he voluntarily made a cash contribution for the purchase of Civil War books and literature.

Lack of space precludes further mention of similar gestures of appreciation on the part of members of the newspaper corps, but the foregoing are sufficient proof that the Adams County Free Library is "on the job" and "way ahead" of other institutions its size in satisfactory and expeditious service.

Lauds Two Founders

I cannot end this article without a commemorative word in behalf of two of the Library's founders, none other than Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, Adams County's most distinguished author and writer, and the late Hon. O. H. Benson, a genius for organization, and one who had acquired a national reputation for his civil and cultural activities, particularly in connection with the Boy Scouts and 4-H Clubs. I am sure all will agree that Mrs. Lewars and Mr. Benson were the spark plugs of the Library movement in Adams County.

And, personally, I must hand a bouquet to the Library's efficient and always gracious and accommodating librarian, Mrs. Mary Wilson; and to her helpful and courteous assistants, now 4 in number as against 1 at the Library's opening in 1946.

As the theme of this story has to do with Library-School relationship, and the financial status of the former, I shall conclude with a copy of a Resolution adopted by The Adams County School Directors' Association in convention assembled on December 9, 1955:

Resolution

In appreciation of the valuable service rendered by the Adams County Free Library to the public schools of this county, we desire to express this appreciation on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the library. We, therefore, will sponsor a Birthday Party to be held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the library on January 19, 1956, at the library building on E. High St., Gettysburg. We further urge the school districts to continue their moral and financial support of this splendid institution.

FEATHER RIVER IS PATROLLED AT YUBA CITY

SAN FRANCISCO (P) — Engineers kept watchful eyes and constant patrols on the raging Feather River at Yuba City today as other areas in the state counted fresh flood losses.

Major new damage appeared to be at two coastal resort villages, Bolinas and Sausalito, both in Marin County, which yesterday was included in flood disaster areas by President Eisenhower.

Although Yuba City's 9,000 people were spared a second flooding, Col. John J. Livingstone, Air Force engineer, said the levee at Shanghai Bend where the big Christmas break occurred "is still a frail sister."

The combined Feather and Yuba rivers, draining a huge watershed on the western slope of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, crested at 68.3 feet yesterday and were falling gradually. The weather was clear and crisp.

Soldiers Work Shifts

But the dike at Shanghai Bend is new, built hastily after the Christmas floods with anything at hand. A stiff wind whipped waves to within six inches of the top in spots.

Beale Air Force Base soldiers worked in short shifts, stopping leaks with tarpaulins and sandbags as fast as they appeared. The dike was so shaky they could use no mechanized equipment.

"If the water had gone up another three or four inches I hate to think of what would have happened," said Robert Pallex, director of the Sutter County Levee Control District. The only thing, he said, that saved Yuba City from another flooding like the one last Christmas week which cost 33 lives and $75,000,000 damage was "a miracle—and the boys from Camp Beale."

Rush Reserves To Weak Spot

Northern California's Christmas week flood toll was at least 62 dead and more than 500 million dollars damage.

Late last night the Air Force rushed 150 men to Verona, where a weak spot developed in the Sacramento River levee above Sacramento. This is just below the junction of the Sacramento and the swollen Feather - Yuba combined flow.

Above Verona near Nikolaus, a huge new flow of water poured into some 22,000 acres of rich farmland flooded in the holidays by a break which has not been repaired. Old-timers estimate it may take nine months to drain the flooded area.

Bolinas and Sausalito, small resorts 30 miles northwest of San Francisco on Bolinas Bay, were hard hit by mud slides and fractious creeks.

Mud Wrecks Farm

Neither has more than a thousand population, yet Bolinas reckoned its losses at around $125,000 and Sausalito Beach at $150,000 or more. Both were without water. Sausalito Beach was entirely cut off until late yesterday, and Bolinas had only one road open. Neither had any milk or bread.

At Bolinas, cliffs crumbled under the downpour and sent mud sliding down on houses, pushing them off their pilings and foundations.

At Sausalito Beach, the denuded and steep slope of Mt. Tamalpais on which the town is built behind

FUEL TRUCKERS ARE FAR FROM SETTLEMENT

NEW YORK (P) — Fuel truck drivers, on strike for higher pay and other benefits, appeared today to be further from a settlement than when they walked out Sunday night.

The strike has stopped all coal and 60 per cent of fuel oil deliveries in all New York City except Staten Island.

Although most buildings have enough fuel on hand to keep tenants warm for an average of 10 days, city authorities got several hundred calls for emergency deliveries yesterday, first day of the strike.

When the strike began, City Labor Commissioner Nelson Seitel reported that the employers and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters were within 5 cents of agreement. The employers had offered a 20-cent-an-hour package, he said, and the union wanted 25 cents. Present wages average $2.40 an hour.

Have Emergency Fuel

When mediators met yesterday with representatives of the union at the request of Mayor Robert F. Wagner, it was disclosed that the union sought an estimated 39-cent hourly increase.

Hugh A. Sheridan, chairman of a long sandspit loosed an avalanche of mud which wrecked a dairy farm and flowed through a $50,000 residence of retired San Francisco art dealer Burnham Marsh.

a citizens committee appointed by the mayor to help settle the labor dispute, said previous union proposals had been merely "measuring sticks." He said the 3,000 drivers employed by 300 companies now want a wage increase of 20 cents an hour, a 5-cent increase in welfare benefits, and a pension allotment equal to 5 per cent of the gross payroll.

The city's schools, hospitals and public services were assured of emergency fuel deliveries.

Battered Jet Pilot Flies F100 Again

LOS ANGELES (P) — Test pilot George Smith has flown an F100 super sabre again.

It was almost 11 months since he'd flown his last one, for on that flight Smith, 31, became the first man to bail out of a plane flying faster than sound and live.

The battering required six months of hospitalization.

Yesterday he flew a super sabre again, and he says he expects to be on regular flight duty from now on.

Hollywood Will Get Sparkling Sidewalks

HOLLYWOOD (P) — The sidewalks here are going Hollywood.

Plans to install brightly colored, glittering sidewalks on parts of Hollywood Boulevard and Vine Street were approved yesterday by the Los Angeles Board of Public Works.

Sidewalks made of squares of buff and brown cement will be set off by an aquamarine trim. They'll be impregnated with an abrasive material to add sparkle and keep folks from slipping.

REFERENDUM ON HORSE RACE BILL BEING OPPOSED

HARRISBURG (P) — A move by 14 Democrats to force a House vote on a bill for a horse racing referendum failed in the House last night after the leaders of both parties asked members to oppose it.

Reps. Smith and Readinger, GOP and Democratic floor leaders, respectively, spoke against a resolution drafted by Rep. Bazin (R-Phila.) which would have forced the Rules Committee to permit a floor vote on the question.

Bazin said he decided to attempt to force a floor vote because he thought legalized parimutuel betting was a good way to help raise tax money.

Demands Raised

A standing, unrecorded vote, with about 20 Democrats supporting the resolution, defeated the measure. It specifically called for a floor vote on a referendum bill introduced March 29 by Rep. McGee (D-Phila.).

Smith explained the Republican leadership opposed the resolution because in the past the GOP has always been against bypassing committee action on any bill.

Readinger urged defeat of the resolution "mainly on the grounds that the Senate defeated an identical bill" on March 22.

WANTS PROBE OF STATEMENT BY RIDGWAY

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) today suggested a Senate inquiry into Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's statement that as Army chief of staff he felt he was "being called upon to destroy" U. S. fighting strength.

Ridgway made the declaration in the first of a series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post, published today. He said the Department of Defense tried to silence his criticism of its policies, and he questioned the accuracy of a statement by President Eisenhower.

Secretary of Defense Wilson told reporters in New York last night that "I cannot comment because I have not read the article." He added he regards Ridgway, who was not named to a second term as Army chief of staff last fall, as "a dedicated general who believes very strongly in the Army."

Was Covered Before
Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) said today that while he has great respect for Ridgway, he thinks the general is "thrashing some old straw." Ridgway had made clear some months before his retirement his disagreement with administration moves to cut Army manpower.

Mansfield said in a separate interview it would be well for some Senate group to give Ridgway an opportunity "to document his statements and lay the story before the American people."

Sen. Symington (D-Mo) told the Senate yesterday that Ridgway's remarks showed that in the Eisenhower administration "the security of the nation is being thrown into the market place to be traded for political advantage."

"Nonplussed In '54"
Ridgway wrote that his superiors sought to persuade him to fit his views to a "preconceived politico-military 'party line.'"

"In my job as chief of staff," he said, "I say in all earnestness and sincerity that I felt I was being called upon to destroy, rather than to build, a fighting force on which rested the world's best hope for peace."

Ridgway said he was "nonplussed" when he read Eisenhower's 1954 State of the Union message to Congress. He said the President claimed his budget then was "based on a new military program unanimously recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

Cautioned By Wilson
As a member of the Joint Chiefs, Ridgway wrote, he had "most emphatically not concurred." He said three Army budgets on which he had a responsibility were founded on "budgetary considerations, on political considerations, on the advantage to be gained in the field of domestic politics by a drastic reduction in military expenditures."

Ridgway said Secretary Wilson cautioned him to express his views publicly would "place me in the position of taking issue with my commander in chief, and that," he (Wilson) added bluntly, "would not be good." Ridgway said he felt he had been subjected to pressures, "sometimes crudely applied," to drop his opposition.

OLD SOLDIERS DON'T ALWAYS FADE QUIETLY

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Old soldiers may fade away but not always quietly.

Three of the most famous generals of recent years — Douglas MacArthur, Omar Bradley and Matthew B. Ridgway—had some critical things to say once they were out of uniform about the way the man in the White House handled the armed forces.

The latest is Ridgway who, in a Saturday Evening Post article today, makes a slashing attack on the Eisenhower administration's treatment of the Army and plainly implies President Eisenhower misrepresented him before Congress.

MacArthur Was First
MacArthur was the first to sound off, and with the loudest repercussions. After President Truman sacked him, he blasted the President's handling of the Korean War and kept on blasting that was in 1951.

Any fading he did from the newspaper headlines wasn't noticeable until after the Republicans' 1952 convention where some delegates thought he ought to be president. The Saturday Evening Post seems to have an affinity for old generals. That is where Bradley, like Ridgway, raised a cautioning voice. But Bradley was far less critical than Ridgway about Eisenhower's ideas on defense.

Bradley Spoke Quickly
Bradley had been made chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff by Truman. Even though Bradley was an old Army pal of Eisenhower, the new President seemed determined to get rid of as many Truman appointees as possible.

He decided to let Bradley retire at age 60 and replace him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs with Adm. Arthur W. Radford. On Aug. 19, 1953, four days after he had stepped out of military life, Bradley's story appeared in the Post.

Eisenhower, anxious to fill a Republican campaign promise to cut government spending, began cutting into military spending by five billion dollars. Eisenhower argued this was more defense at less cost. Bradley cautioned against letting security be endangered by too much economy. He acknowledged he had made a mistake himself in setting defense spending sights too low before the Korean War.

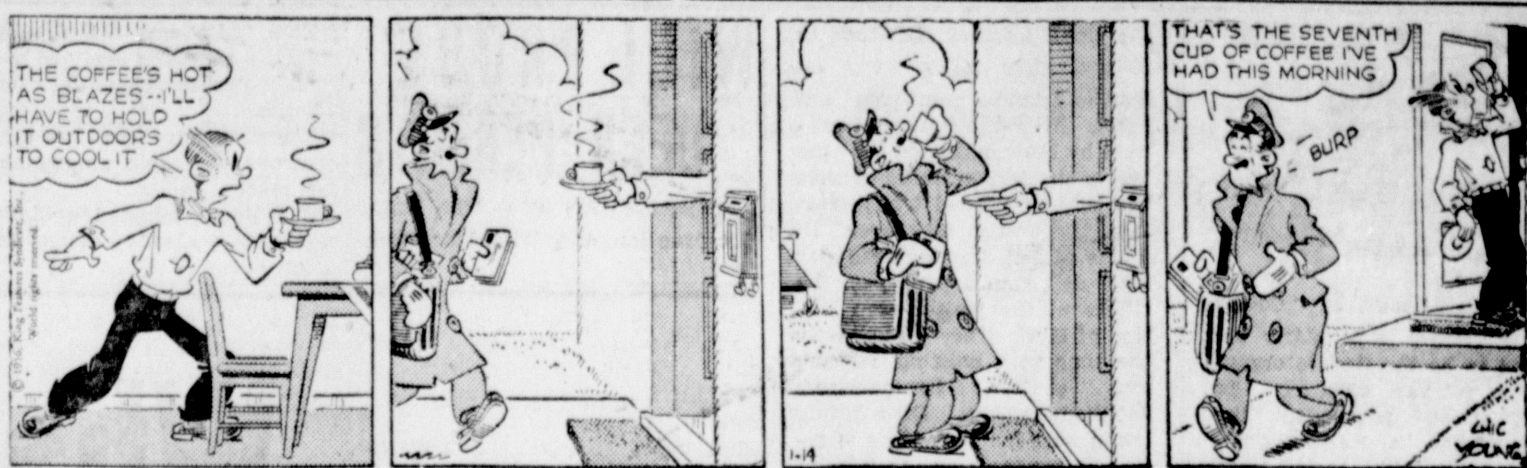

Not Appreciated By Ike
Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson did some of their encouraging at the expense of the Army. Ridgway, while still Army chief of staff, protested to Congress about this.

Eisenhower didn't seem to appreciate Ridgway's criticism. He called it "parochial." Ridgway, 60 last year, could have been kept on two years more as chief of staff. Eisenhower let him retire last year.

Now, in the Post article, Ridgway says the administration's cuts in the Army were "almost entirely" for economic and political reasons, not for military ones. He said "pressure" was put on him to persuade him to go along with the cuts.

He says he was baffled when, despite his protests, Eisenhower told Congress the Joint Chiefs of Staff were unanimously behind his military program, which included cuts in the Army.

The bow and arrow had not been invented by the first men to reach America, scientists believe.

TEXAS EASTERN SERVES THE COMPANIES THAT SERVE YOU

Magnesium radar parts are being withdrawn from a natural gas-fired furnace. Efficient natural gas is used for spot-heat control by Lavoie Laboratories, Morganville, N. J. This manufacturer of electronic equipment is furnished natural gas by New Jersey Natural Gas Company, a customer of Texas Eastern.

Texas Eastern transports natural gas from the Southwest to be used in an important process in the manufacture of aircraft radar. Weight is a vital factor in aircraft design — and magnesium plays an important role in aircraft construction because of its light weight and structural strength. Natural gas is used to spot-heat magnesium in the process of forming it into the many shapes radar gear must take to fit properly within the limited space of a fighter plane. Every user enjoys the advantages of natural gas — it is economical, clean and efficient.

natural gas PIPELINES oil products

Texas Eastern's natural gas pipelines serve the Midwestern, Appalachian and Eastern areas. Soon the Company's oil product pipelines will transport refined oils and liquefied petroleum products from the Gulf Coast to Midwestern markets.

Thomas Cook, of "Cook's Tours" fame, is popularly believed to be the first to organize a railway excursion. In 1841, Cook persuaded the Midland Counties Railway Company to run a special train from Leicester to Loughborough and back at a shilling for the round trip for the benefit of those attending a temperance meeting. But students of British railway history point out that there are at least three excursion trains which antedate the one promoted by Cook. In 1835, the Dublin and Kingston Railway ran a reduced fare train for a Sunday School outing. In 1839, the Whitby and Pickering Railway made special arrangements for passengers attending a church bazaar. And in 1840, the Midland Counties Railway is on record as having carried 2,400 passengers on one excursion train. However, Cook is the acknowledged father of the excursion industry, since he was the first to make a business of arranging for large-scale travel on special trains. In 1844, he made a permanent arrangement with the Midland Counties Railway by which they furnished trains for which he provided the passengers. From this small start, Cook expanded his operations until within a few years he was promoting tours on an international scale.

Tourists traveling by rail in Finland may henceforth look in vain for a porter. Alexander Johppola, who claims he was the last railway porter left in his country, recently retired in Helsinki. It seems there's very little need for redcaps in Finland. The Finn carry only light luggage on their rail trips and expect visitors to do the same.

A bandit rides John Ringling North's private railroad car. However, no one is in danger of hearing a harsh command to "stick 'em up!" The bandit happily is one of the one-armed type — a slot machine which is a stationary fixture in the circus man's private car.

New Zealand recently experienced a petticoat sitdown strike on a railroad track. The government had decreed the dismantling of the rail line linking the small town of Glenhope to Nelson, fifty miles away on South Island's northern sea coast. After the failure of protests by their husbands that the loss of the section would deprive the area of needed transportation, the women took over. In teams of ten, they camped day after day, rain or shine, on the tracks at the whistle-stop station of Kiwi. They whiled away the time with knitting, reading and chatter. Sympathizers supplied hot tea. Dismantling crews were helpless. The women, encouraged by crowds of bystanders, sat on the rails and wouldn't budge. A group was finally arrested, charged with obstruction and trespass and fined $10 each. The attendant publicity swelled support for a petition to Parliament for continued operation of the line. It was defeated by a single vote. The women returned to their vigil, determined to sit again on the tracks at first sight of a wrecking crew. Said their leader, forty-nine-year-old Mrs. Ruth Page, "We will be run over by trains if necessary."

"Glamour Glims" is not a Hollywood press agent's term for the beautiful eyes of a starlet. It's the nickname bestowed by trainmen on the Gyrallites of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new scenic-dome train, The Canadian. The Gyrallites, a "first" in railroad history, are mounted on the leading diesel unit and direct beams skyward from dusk to dawn as the silvery trains streak along. The new trains run simultaneously westward and eastward on a 2,881-mile transcontinental route from Montreal and Toronto to Vancouver. The Gyrallite beams do not take the place of locomotive headlights nor do they interfere with the engine crew's vision after nightfall. Onlookers are reported entranced with the spectacular display as the white fingers of light search the heavens, continuously describing a pattern resembling a figure eight. The effect is said to be particularly beautiful on overcast nights, when clouds reflect the brilliant beams.

A bullet-proof luxury train is in the works for Mao Tse-tun, leader of the Chinese Communists. A report issued by the West Berlin Anti-Communist Information Bureau states that the train is being built in Russia-controlled East Germany and will consist of several passenger coaches, a sleeping car, two dining cars and a baggage car. The train will have its own radio and telephone systems.

The lungfish can breathe air as well as water.

WILL PROBE DEER PERMITS

HARRISBURG (AP) — The House Conservation and Wild Life Committee today has authorization to launch a thorough study of how the state issues antlerless deer hunting licenses. The procedure has been a highly controversial topic among hunters for several years. The House adopted a bipartisan resolution yesterday calling for the investigation and a report with recommendations to be made direct to the Game Commission. Under present law the permits, when the commission decides to hold a doe hunt, are sold for $1.15 by county treasurers and are good only in the county where purchased. Other measures approved by the House would: Appropriate $6,000 for the expenses of the Joint Legislative Committee that investigated conditions at the Pennsylvania Training School at Morgantown. Urge Congress to intervene in the proposed firing of almost 2,700 federal employees at four locations

New York's Port Authority bus terminal is the largest in the world, according to the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau. It handles approximately 5,000 interstate bus movements and is used by over 130,000 passengers daily. in the Philadelphia area.

What you should know about insuring your car

Learn all the facts—find out if your car is running on "2-cylinder coverage"...

Someone once said that Americans can be divided into two equal groups—those who are suing, and those being sued...

The man exaggerates. But if you're a car owner, you stand a reasonable chance of joining one of these two groups during your driving years. Accidents do happen—to the best drivers in the most cared-for cars... and lawsuits often follow. That's why it pays to take a careful look at your auto coverage to be sure it protects you right.

COVERAGE YOU SHOULD HAVE:

Many motorists are under the impression that the value of the car itself should be insured first. But look at it this way: If a $2,300 car is demolished, the owner is out $2,300. But if he seriously injures someone in an accident, he could be sued for as much as $50,000—even more. For this reason, the first two auto insurance coverages every motorist should have are...

1. BODILY INJURY LIABILITY

This basic coverage is designed to protect you against accidental injuries to others, for which you may be legally liable. It should also protect you against sickness, disease, or death of others resulting from such accidents.

Bodily Injury should also protect you against claims for medical care and for loss of service because of injury to others... plus the cost of your legal defense, bail and attachment bond premiums.

Bodily Injury comes with two limits—for injury to one person, plus a larger limit for an accident injuring several people. The minimum amount any driver should carry is $10,000/$20,000.

If you have an above average income... if you own a home or have a business... you may want higher limits. The actual amount should depend on your financial worth... or more accurately, on how much you may be sued for.

(2. PROPERTY DAMAGE LIABILITY

This coverage protects you against accidental damage by your car to the property of others for which you are legally liable. This coverage should include damage to other automobiles as well as the loss of use of damaged property. Your minimum limit should be $5,000... with increased amounts, depending on your income or assets.

Bodily Injury and Property Damage Liability should be the "heart" of your auto insurance. They cover you against the costliest losses, and they are as essential to your financial peace of mind as good brakes are to safe driving. After you have these first two coverages you should think about...

3. MEDICAL PAYMENTS

What about injury to yourself... or to your passengers? A medical payments coverage should take care of that. But be sure it's extended coverage. That way you're not only protected (to the policy limit) for ambulance, hospital and medical expenses... but you and all others covered by your policy are protected against accidental injury as pedestrians while riding in public motor vehicles or in cars not owned by you.

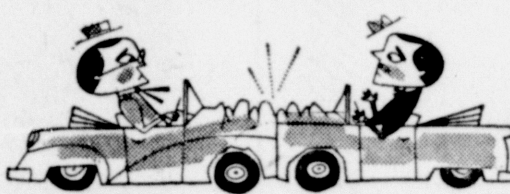

The minimum limit for this coverage should be no less than $500. But with medical costs as high as they are, a much higher limit is advisable—such as $2,000 per person.

4. COMPREHENSIVE

At this point you're ready to insure the value of the car itself. It should include fire and theft plus protection against damage by malicious mischief, tornado, windstorm, explosion, riot, flood and many other causes.

Your theft provision should include protection against pilferage of car equipment—tires, bumpers, etc.—plus damage from theft or attempted theft. Damage to your car by collision or upset is not included in the comprehensive coverage. This is a separate coverage, known as...

5. COLLISION INSURANCE

This coverage has a deductible amount... so that if your car is damaged by accidental collision with another object or by upset—your policy pays for all damages over the deductible amount (up to the current value of your car).

We know from experience with our own policyholders that the $50 deductible amount is usually the most popular. It allows a reasonable deductible sum—which the average policyholder can handle without difficulty in the event of collision damage—and it offers a low premium.

Another thing to remember: Your collision and comprehensive protection can be transferred to another car you're buying—probably at a saving to you. That's because you won't have to buy a new policy and you also won't be paying the short-term rate due to cancelling your old policy.

NATIONWIDE'S "AUTO-GRAPHIC" POLICY

Here's a policy that offers you all the above coverages, plus these entirely unique features:

There's no fine print in this policy. More than 3,000 words were eliminated so that it's easy to read and understand. And there are quite a few pictures right in the policy to give you the clearest possible understanding of your benefits. You're sure to like this "different" kind of policy.

The AUTO-GRAPHIC also includes Comprehensive Family Liability. This covers you against lawsuits for hundreds of non-auto accidents. And because of our traditionally low rates, it can be included in your policy and you'll still pay less for the AUTO-GRAPHIC than for most auto policies alone.

As an owner of the AUTO-GRAPHIC you're also assured the very finest claim settlement service when trouble comes. Nationwide's reputation for fast, fair settlements is well-known by the more than 2,000,000 drivers we insure. For all the facts, contact your Nationwide office listed below, or see the Nationwide representative in your community.

"IN SERVICE WITH PEOPLE"

That's the slogan of Nationwide Insurance, and what it means is this: Nationwide works together with people, rather than just for them. And because we believe that people can solve their own problems cooperatively, the policyholders of Nationwide Insurance retain an active voice in the affairs of their company.

Through their POLICYHOLDER ADVISORY COMMITTEES, the folks who make up Nationwide Insurance are given an opportunity to speak up and be heard. In our more than 300 sales districts, representative policyholders elect delegates to regional committees, which then elect a company-wide POLICYHOLDER ADVISORY COMMITTEE to meet annually in Columbus.

Here our policyholders tell us what their needs are, and suggest ways of filling these needs. They tell us what they like and don't like about Nationwide Insurance, and offer ideas on what should be done. Many tangible products and services have resulted from these meetings to help our policyholders achieve the security they seek.

At one of these meetings a policyholder asked that we "cut out the fine print" from our auto insurance... and that's exactly what we did. The result? Nationwide's AUTO-GRAPHIC policy!

If you'd like to know more about our POLICYHOLDER ADVISORY COMMITTEES... and if you'd like to attend one of their meetings, whether or not you're one of our 2,000,000 policyholders, a free, informative pamphlet is yours for the asking. Just drop a card to:
